Available from June 2025.

Korum is a family of indirect lighting products designed by Karim Rashid for Cini&Nils. Its name, inspired by the word corum, meaning shield, recalls a design conceived to enhance soft, gentle light. Available in suspended or wall-mounted versions, it embodies the creative approach of one of the most iconic designers on the contemporary scene, with a vision that combines aesthetics and function. Korum is distinguished by the possibility of modular installation: single, double or in multi-coloured combinations, with different light orientations depending on requirements. The large wall and ceiling versions are also available with a mirror-effect front cover, adding an extra functionality that makes it perfect for those seeking a multifunctional and visually striking piece of furniture. The finishes, with great attention to detail, stand out thanks to the introduction of the new glossy and flip paint versions, which represent an evolution from the standard Cini&Nils finishes. These options enhance the three-dimensionality of the design, capturing the light and adding depth and character to the lamp. With its scenic presence, Korum is a furnishing element that enhances contemporary environments, lending personality and style to any space.
